{ Avram and his family, having been exiled from Ur Kasdim by Nimrod, had been living in Charan for some time. G-d was not happy with (i) Abram living with his idol-worshipping father; (ii) Abram living in an unholy land; and (iii) the futility of Abram's proselytizing G-d's word in one place; especially a place of obstinately unrighteous inhabitants. G-d, wanting Abram to spread the word of G-d throughout the world, determined it was time to tell Abram of the changes Abram needed to make in his life.} And He said {; that is, it was}	וַיֹּאמֶר
